PROFESSIONAL PROFILE

I am a professional cook with experience in fine dining, upscale hotels and high-volume service. I specialise in the hot section, combining organised production with a technical approach to ingredients and building flavour through stocks, sofritos, reductions and precise cooking.

My cooking starts with disciplined mise en place, making the most of each ingredient and balancing flavour, texture and presentation. I am used to managing several preparations at once and working as part of a team under pressure, with a focus on quality from prep to the last plate of service.
